PEPSICO BRAND IDEAS

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

THE CHALLENGE

JOY struggles to convert Gen Z into first-time users, limiting its growth and engagement.

KEY INSIGHT

Gen Z responds best to immediate value, convenience, exclusivity, and shareable experiences, not traditional loyalty points.

OUR SOLUTION

Drive first-time JOY sign ups through campus pop-ups where registration is required to unlock immediate rewards.

WHY IT WORKS

Pop-ups bring JOY directly to Gen Z, create social buzz, and introduce users to PepsiCo products in a fun, memorable way.

EXPECTED IMPACT

Pop-ups drive first-time sign-ups, while JOY rewards help turn initial interest into continued engagement.

JOY'S BIGGEST BARRIER IS ADOPTION, NOT ENGAGEMENT

BEFORE JOY CAN DRIVE ENGAGEMENT, PEPSICO HAS TO MAKE JOY VISIBLE, VALUABLE, AND EASY TO JOIN.

Low awareness is blocking the funnel

- Gen Z is not actively seeking out loyalty programs unless the value is obvious, immediate, and easy to access.
- Interviewees state they usually use loyalty programs for free items, discounts, or perks, not because of deep brand attachment. (Interviewees 3, 7, 9)

Gen Z loyalty is weak unless the benefit is clear

- Interview data showed that most participants switch between products based on price and convenience, and many could not name brands they felt strongly connected to. (Interviewees 2, 7, 8, 10)

OUR SOLUTION

POPUP ACTIVATIONS

On-Campus Activations Make JOY Feel Immediate and Worth Joining

Generated with creative fabrica

- REACH GEN Z WHERE THEY ALREADY ARE
- MAKE JOY SIGN-UP THE ENTRY POINT TO INSTANT VALUE
- CREATE SHAREABLE EXPERIENCES THAT DRIVE AWARENESS AND PRODUCT TRIAL

Pop-ups help PepsiCo solve JOY's biggest challenge: adoption. By bringing JOY directly to Gen Z through fun, high-traffic activations, PepsiCo can turn awareness into sign-up and make joining feel immediately worthwhile.

INTERVIEWEES SAY:

"I stop when I see a line of people getting stuff for free." - Interviewee 8

"I would stop by ... because I'd get free things in return." - Interviewee 10

"I stop... when they have the rewards laid out or there is a big crowd around them." -Interviewee 9

"[I would post] if they had sick merch or free stuff or cool props to take photos in." - Interviewee 8

RECENT CAMPUS POP UPS SHOW STRONG DEMAND

Instagram, @jekyllislandlove, "Google Gemini AI on BU campus," posted April 22, 2026

Instagram, @bustudentgov, "Matcha pop-up line," posted April 14, 2026

IN JUST THE PAST WEEK,
BU STUDENTS SHOWED UP
FOR MULTIPLE POP-UP
ACTIVATIONS.

Google Gemini AI Pop-Up

Showed that students are willing to stop for interactive, experience-driven brand activations.

BU x lululemon Pop-Up

Reinforced that branded events attract student interest when they feel relevant, exclusive, and lifestyle-driven.

Boston University Matcha Pop-Up

Demonstrated how free products, visual appeal, and social buzz can quickly generate lines and excitement.

These examples show that pop-ups already capture Gen Z attention. PepsiCo can use the same format to drive JOY awareness and sign-up, rather than trying to build interest from scratch.

THREE POP-UP CONCEPTS BUILT TO DRIVE JOY SIGN-UPS

CUSTOMIZABLE STUDIO

THE CONCEPT

Sign up to Joy and enter a raffle to discover which item you get to personalize (keychain, charm bracelet, tumbler). Once item is decided walk to the station and personalize your free Pepsi gift.

WHY IT WORKS

- Gen Z loves personalization
- Customized Item = Social Media worthy story
- Post-activation marketing carries out through the customized gifts

PEPSI REWIND

THE CONCEPT

A Pop-up inspired by the different eras of Pepsi. Activities such as guess the era from the ad, PepsiCo trivia, and a legacy flavor trial. Topped with a photobooth experience to share with friends.

image generated by Google Gemini

WHY IT WORKS

- Familiar cultural eras increase brand affinity (Deloitte)
- Nostalgia driven experiences increase emotional connectivity by tapping into familiarity and comfort
- Reconnect audience with brand

Reasons For Switching Brands

Team 5 Appendix. (2026). Appendix 5 Survey Data.

THE CONCEPT

Go around and test out each of PepsiCo's different brands. Get a stamp for each brand you try and if you try a sample of all the brands you get to take home an exclusive tote filled with your favorite PepsiCo products.

WHY IT WORKS

- 41% of Gen Z listed free product trial/sample as a reason to switch brands.
- Exposes participants to new PepsiCo products in a memorable way

KEY TAKEAWAYS

THE PROBLEM

JOY's challenge is adaption, getting sign ups is crucial to their success

KEY DRIVER OF ADOPTION

Gen Z reacts to immediate tangible value

OUR STRATEGY

Imbed sign up into experiences where value is instantly recognized

RESULTS

Passive awareness is turned into adoption, creating momentum for further engagement
